

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A photographing method is disclosed that uses a mobile communication terminal having a camera, with the method including steps of entering a remote-control photographing mode, receiving a predetermined call, determining whether or 5 not a telephone number of the predetermined call corresponds to a telephone number stored in a memory, and operating the camera to take a photograph when the telephone number of the predetermined call corresponds to the telephone number stored in the memory. The photographing is carried out by remote-controlling the camera accommodated in the mobile communication terminal.

10